On Monday, December 8, 2014, dozens of Wellness Outreach Worker (WOW) graduates were recognized for their participation and efforts in the program at a WOW end-of-year celebration. The luncheon holiday party was hosted by the Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health (LACDMH) Adult Systems of Care (ASOC) at the headquarters' second floor conference room.

There are more than 400 WOW graduates who provide support as volunteers in the program. Some receive a stipend for their efforts. The celebration was a way of thanking the volunteers and acknowledging all they do to help others.

The holiday party included a sing-along, raffles and games. The LACDMH Choir also sang festive tunes at the luncheon, getting everyone in the holiday spirit.
