SACRAMENTO UPDATE

Last night, the Governor announced that he had reached an agreement with the legislative leaders from the four caucuses on the issues that had been delaying passage of the State budget. The agreement will be presented to the four caucuses today. Action is expected as soon as tomorrow on the budget bill, some seventeen budget-related trailer bills, and SCA 9, the proposed constitutional amendment to protect local government revenues during future State budget crises.

SCA 9: Local Government Protection

The agreement announced yesterday seeks to balance State policymakers' need for flexibility during a budget crisis with local governments' need for predictability of revenues to maintain essential local services. While the agreement does not prevent the State from dipping into local revenues during a future budget crisis, it establishes new conditions and limitations that must be met that far exceed the protections provided to local governments under current law, as well as those enjoyed by K-14 education. In return for local governments' $1.3 billion contribution to the State budget solution in each of the next two years, the Legislature agreed to submit a constitutional amendment to the voters in November that would:

- Protect the allocation of local property taxes as they exist on November 3, 2004, but allow the State, starting in FY 2008-09, to borrow (not take or shift) city, county, and special district property taxes, but only if the Governor first declares that "a severe state fiscal hardship" requires suspension of the constitutional protections, and the Legislature, by a two-thirds vote of each house, passes an urgency bill suspending protection and in a separate bill enacts a statute providing for the full repayment of lost revenue, including interest, within three years. Before a suspension can occur, the State must repay the existing vehicle license fee (VLF) gap loan ($205 million to the County), and such a suspension cannot be done more than twice in any ten-year period, with the second suspension contingent on full repayment of the first loan. In addition, the total amount that can be borrowed is limited to 8 percent of non-education property taxes or the equivalent of roughly $1.4 billion currently. (Language to protect redevelopment increment from a future ERAF shift is still being pursued by the California Redevelopment Association.)

- Provide that the Legislature can only reallocate local government property taxes between non-educational agencies within a county if approved by a two-thirds vote of each house, but not to pay the cost of a State-mandated program.
- Fully replace the existing State backfill with property taxes (except during the two year period local governments are giving up revenue), and require that if the rate is ever reduced below a new statutory rate of 0.65, the State must backfill the lost revenue.
- Specify that the existing local sales tax rate and revenue distribution cannot be changed, and guarantee the return to cities and counties of the ¼ cent sales tax used to finance economic recovery bonds.
- Require, beginning in FY 2005-06, either full funding of local government (but not school) mandates or their automatic suspension, except for certain employee-related mandates. Local governments can cease to perform suspended mandates.
- Clarify that a State-imposed increased share of costs to local governments for a jointly funded program constitutes a reimbursable State mandate.

In addition to these constitutional protections, legislative leaders agreed to address other key elements of the local government agreement in budget trailer legislation, including a guarantee to repay deferred mandates within five years, allow for securitization of the VLF gap loan and any future State borrowing of local property taxes, repeal of the realignment "poison pill," and reform of the mandate certification process. Also, the formula for determining the allocation of the special district property tax contribution was changed to require dependent, as well as independent special districts to shift 10 percent of their property tax revenues to schools for two years, and veterans' memorial and mosquito abatement districts were exempted.

Upon passage by the Legislature of the proposed constitutional amendment, local governments have agreed not to pursue the ballot initiative which they had qualified for the November election. Instead, the Governor has committed to raising funds and serving as chair of the campaign to seek voter approval of the agreed-upon constitutional changes.

The struggle to protect local revenues from arbitrary State taking has been long and difficult. Ever since the last major State budget crisis in the early 1990's when State policymakers twice dipped into local coffers to help balance the State budget, local governments, after failing to see their revenues restored as promised, have talked about trying to protect themselves from another State raid. Governor Davis' budget proposal last year to eliminate the State backfill for the VLF reduction, though not adopted, was a wake up call. Faced with the certainty of a State budget deficit in 2004, local governments joined together last year to devise a constitutional amendment that would protect local revenues from the State and strengthen their protection against unfunded State mandates. Unlike similar efforts in the past, the state organizations representing local governments agreed to significant commitments to fund the signature-gathering effort needed to qualify an initiative for the ballot.

When it became clear in early May 2004 that the signature-gathering effort had been successful, the Governor, who had helped fuel the effort by proposing a permanent shift of $1.3 billion in local property taxes to schools in his January Budget proposal, struck a deal with local governments. In return for their acceptance of the $1.3 billion property tax shift for two years only, the Governor promised local governments he would actively support a legislatively enacted constitutional amendment that provides most of the protections contained in their local initiative.

When the agreement was announced, legislative leaders, particularly the Democrats, served notice that since they had not been a party to the negotiations, they did not feel bound to approve it. In late May, the Legislative Analyst's Office issued a critique of the agreement urging the Legislature to modify it. Once the agreement was given a legislative hearing in early June, it was clear that it could not pass without changes. Democratic Leaders and reform minded legislators in both parties insisted that the agreement had to provide the State with greater flexibility in subsequent budget crises and not foreclose the possibility of a future reform of the State-local fiscal relationship. With $1.3 billion of local revenue already assumed in the State budget and the budget deadline fast approaching, the need to find an acceptable compromise that balanced the concerns and conflicting interests of the State and local governments assumed a real urgency. After more than a month of negotiations, which have been complicated by the diverse nature of the local coalition, as well as a variety of non-budgetary side issues, an agreement was reached, and the deadlock over the State budget was broken.

State Budget Impacts on the County

Compared to the Governor's January Budget proposal, the budget that will be voted on is a vast improvement for the County. It will have minimal fiscal impact, aside from the two-year property tax shift to schools which will cost a total of $113 million (including $10 million from special districts). The single most significant change was the agreement among local governments to allocate the Governor's $1.3 billion shift reduction in a fairer way that reduced the contribution of counties from $915 million to $350 million. The proposed budget continues most current policies and programs at current funding levels. Attachment A, which compares the fiscal impact of the January proposal, the May Revise and the proposed budget, indicates that the revenue loss to the County has dropped from $472 million under the January proposal to $148 million under the budget bill. This remarkable change is only possible because of an increase in State spending in the budget year of over $3 billion compared to the January proposal. Some of the major changes from the January proposal and the revenue loss averted by the County include:

Health and Human Services

- The Residual Program under In-Home Supportive Services (IHSS) will be continued and funded under a proposed federal waiver which, if granted, will reduce the cost to counties as well as the State ($35 M).
- The proposed cap on IHSS provider wages was rejected ($40.9 M).
- Children's System of Care was restored ($4.8 M).
- The proposal to increase to 20% the county share of costs for the Early Periodic Screening, Diagnosis and Testing Program was rejected ($5.1 M).
- The waiver for the county match for Child Welfare augmentation funds was restored ($5.7 M).
- Additional Federal funding for county-provided mental health services for AB 3632 special education students was earmarked if consistent with Federal law ($6 M).
- The Administration's proposal to cap Medi-Cal administration wage increases was dropped in favor of a cost control plan to be developed ($5.4 M).
- VLF realignment backfill for trailers was restored ($3.7 M).
- In place of a proposed $145 million reduction in CalWORKs employment services, $50 million was restored and $40 million in single allocation funds can be rolled over. In addition, the County's one-time FY 2002-03 augmentation is part of base level funding.

- Medi-Cal provider rate reductions were dropped ($1.9 M).

Justice and Public Safety

- Funding for juvenile probation was restored using general funds rather than TANF monies ($55.3 M).
- Booking fees, along with the subvention to cities to pay for them, continue to be authorized, but the subvention to cities was reduced by $28 million to $10 million ($0.8 M). (Continuing opposition by police chiefs may cause this to change.)

General Government

- The County share of the Federal child support penalty was dropped after the Administration announced that the Federal Government would waive the penalty ($11 M).
- The County share of child support collections was restored ($6.4 M).
- The local government exemption from civil filing fees was restored ($5 M).
- Funding is provided for the County High Risk Pest Exclusion Program ($1.2 M), as well as $555,000 in "transitional funding" for Los Angeles County to make agricultural inspectors permanent employees.
- $1.36 million in one-time funding is provided to the Los Angeles County Child Support Agency to increase collections.
- As noted in the local government agreement section above, dependent special districts are included in the $1.3 billion local government contribution which will result in a combined loss of $10.2 million in property tax revenues by the Department of Public Works' special districts, as identified in Attachment A.

In addition to these fiscal impacts on the County, the budget and trailer bills include the following policy decisions of interest to the County and the people it serves:

- Most of the changes sought by the Governor in child care were rejected and funding restored.

- Enrollment caps on various health and social service programs were dropped but a two-tiered benefit package with higher premiums was adopted for the Health Families Program.
- The State Fingerprint Imaging Program was continued.
- The Transitional Food Stamp Program was continued.
- The block grant and transfer to counties of various immigrant related programs was rejected.
- Stricter work requirement for CalWORKs recipients were considerably softened.
- The AIDS Drug Assistance Program was fully funded.
- An alternate (and less generous) reimbursement methodology for Federally Qualified Health Centers was rejected.
- SSI/SSP and CalWORKs grant COLAs were restored but delayed for three months.

Given the magnitude of the State budget problem this year, the risks to local governments, particularly counties because of their heavy dependence upon State funding, were very high. But by working together, local governments were able to avoid a major, permanent loss of funds and most importantly secured an agreement from State political leaders to seek a constitutional amendment to protect local revenues in the future. Despite the overall success that local government enjoyed in this session, the fact remains that they, along with K-14 education, account for most of the cuts in the proposed budget.

Needless to say, this budget does not solve the State's structural budget problem. Consequently, many of the same issues and challenges will be back again next year. In addition, the Administration's promised redesign of the Medi-Cal program, to be unveiled soon, could have a major impact on county indigent health care programs. But for the time being, local governments can breathe a little easier. And if voters approve the proposed constitutional amendment to protect local revenues, their ability to resist future attempts by the State to shift its budget problems onto them will have been greatly strengthened.

Status of County-Interest Legislation

County-supported, AB 2064 (Goldberg), which would propose new guidelines for the State Parks Department in future State bond acts with regard to how urban parks are defined and designed, provide for a portion of expenditures to be made on park-poor underserved areas in proportion to other conservation efforts, and help to clarify that in the future, State park projects can include active recreation uses in heavily urbanized areas, was amended on July 12, 2004. The amendments broaden the scope of the bill, by eliminating "urban" as a qualifying term, leaving a declaration that future park bond funds should be allocated to facilitate active recreation in park-poor areas. Active recreation is broadened to "include, but not be limited to" team or competitive sports, such as soccer, baseball, football, track and field, or swimming. The amendments also allow for the State Parks Department to acquire property and to lease it for 25 years to a city or county for development and operation. The County's Department of Parks and Recreation recommends that the County continue to support AB 2064, as the focus is still on park poor areas and active recreation, and we concur. The recent amendments will have no negative impact on the County. After it was amended, AB 2064 was passed by the Senate Committee on Appropriations by a vote of 6 to 3, and re-referred to the Committee on Appropriations, where it is scheduled for hearing on August 2, 2004.

A roster containing the status of all bills of County interest is contained in Attachment B.

We will continue to keep you advised.
