

SUPER BOWL CHAMPIONS HOST YOUTH FOOTBALL CLINIC AT DKC

RAMS COACHES SHARE STORIES AND RUN YOUTH THROUGH DRILLS

"Today's program was fun. I got my PO to join in. Teamwork makes the dream work, and it's always good to help kids that are going through stuff. This let me know life's not over and gang banging is not everything," stated a youth.

"On June 23rd, the Los Angeles Rams hosted a youth football clinic at Dorothy Kirby Center. The afternoon included the youth receiving Rams T-Shirts, complimentary lunch, and a chat with the coaching staff. Afterward, the youth joined them on a pop-up training field dressed with equipment and practiced football drills. The energy was high, and the youth were extremely excited while participating and engaging with the Rams organization. It was a sight to see the youth and Ram's staff high-fiving and jumping in the air celebrating as they conquered each drill station.

Chief Gonzales stopped by, and a few DKC DPOs joined in on the fun at the youth's request. "I went out there because my kid asked me. Programs like this build character and pro-social behavior. They know they can have positive engagement in an environment without negative influence," said DPO II T&C English.

"Today's football clinic is one of several successful collaborations with the Los Angeles Rams. The goal was to combine physical activity, structure, and excitement," shared Education Services Program Manager, Rahman Williams. "There is no better choice to lead this experience than the Super Bowl champs!"

Thank you to the Rams for an unforgettable afternoon! Collaborations like this keep young people motivated and inspire them to stay focused, work hard, and continue striving to accomplish their dreams.
