PROBATION CLIENTS CELEBRATE COMPLETION OF EDUCATIONAL COURSES

On Thursday January 19th, a culmination ceremony was hosted for 11 probation clients who completed a GED or Introduction to Apple World and Ecosystem course. A grant from Apple funded the free educational classes. The program was a collaboration between Los Angeles County Probation Department, Los Angeles Community College District (LACCD), and Impact Drug and Alcohol Treatment Center. While taking the courses, the clients were supported by Deputy Probation Officers Carrera and Kearney of Probation's Drug Court and Community Collaborative Court programs.

Program participants celebrate their course completion

"We are thrilled to be part of this wonderful collaboration with LACCD, Apple, and Impact. Today we celebrate the participant's commitment, discipline, and accomplishments," shared SDPO Villasenor. "This project provided the participant's personal growth and allowed them to expand their education." Congratulations to our clients!

COMPTON UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT DEPARTMENT OF BLACK STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT'S COLLEGE AND CAREER CONFERENCE

On Tuesday, January 23rd, The Los Angeles County Probation Department Care Team and Director Yung participated in the Compton Unified School District Department of Black Student Achievement's College and Career Conference. They educated students on Probation's role in the justice system, services and careers within the department. Thank you for sharing the department with our future officers!
