

June 23-27, 2013

Los Angeles, California

The University of Southern California's School of Social Work, the Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health and the Los Angeles County Health Services are pleased to extend a warm welcome for you to join us in June 2013 for the 7th International Conference on Social Work in Health and Mental Health.

We look forward to exploring with you exciting research and innovative practices focused on client-centered social work amidst the world famous landmarks of Hollywood. Greater Los Angeles will indeed make for a unique setting in which to examine groundbreaking theories and advanced academic and practice-based research and see how they are translated into evidence-based practices for the diverse population of Southern California.

Among the conference sub-themes include:

- Client groups in health and mental health;
- Integrated service settings in health, mental health and substance abuse;
- Diversity in health and mental health;
- Recovery;
- Families and friends in the recovery process;
- De-stigmatization of mental illness and health problems;
- Interest organizations, recovery, and de-stigmatization;
- Social policy, health, and mental health;
- Health equity;
- Evidence-based practice; and
- Practice-based research.

This conference is planned for you to learn, engage and enjoy LA.
