

KAREN'S TREND TIP: Spring is here! It's hard to imagine that we'll be back in our fall and winter threads in a matter of months. But, what will we be wearing then? Don't worry! No need to fret! Trend spotters already know and are sharing what to expect this upcoming season. Here are three trends that made their way down the runway and will soon make their way to the stores and our closets!

Argyle Sweater: This winter must-have is ski chalet chic and city sleek. Argyle made its way back to the fall and winter fashion runways, updated to suit the mountain and downtown!

Khaki: Step in line with this military staple! Khaki continues to be a dominant color for the colder months. Look for strict silhouettes and structured looks.

Velvet: Silky velvet makes its appearance again this fall and winter season. It's been used to create formal gowns and even pajama-style suits.
