Deputy Rohm shared that people were waiting to be released despite OR because of processing issues. She could not share how long this process takes on average nor the longest it usually takes. Overall, she seemed very overwhelmed, and I had a general concern about her flippant disposition to the incarcerated women in her care and actions to get the Sybil Brand commissioners to talk to select incarcerated individuals upon arrival. When we were speaking to the women in 1400, she came in and defended the deputies' actions when the women were sharing their experiences, essentially monitoring the conversation they were having with commissioners.

Women in 1200 spoke highly of Deputy Ramirez as being helpful. There were concerns about how they were treated when Deputy Mendoza was on shift because he does not let them out enough nor long enough

112. Narrative Report

During the general observation of the facility, it was noted that the staff pod at the front had a movie playing on the big TV monitor, although staff members were present at their stations behind the tinted glass.

1400 (Intake)

The open area floor was littered with milk, trash, and other debris, a condition consistent across all pods in that section.

Critical Concern: NARCAN was available in the pod where deputies and the nurse sat but was not accessible in the pods where incarcerated women were housed.

Pads and tampons were found stored in large plastic bags tied to the stair railings.

Nicole Chrisholm #6987032

Court ordered release since 2:30PM on Friday

Needed her inhaler and it wasn't given to her

1401

Three puddles of water were observed on the floor.

Food was piled up in several cells, especially in cell 5.

Multiple complaints were received regarding the food.

One woman in cell 7 requested to go to a mental hospital. She appeared unwell and was unable to provide her name or booking number.

Another woman had not had access to a shower for three days (since Thursday) and had not been provided with a towel.

Kit Temple (#6979583) was still in paper underwear, had not been given a FISH kit, and her PIN for phone access was not functioning.

The TV in this area was off.

All women were using paper cups for drinking water.

1402

Jacqueline (#cell 15) had not had access to a shower for four days and was not allowed to use the phone, which prevented her from contacting anyone to arrange bail or check on her son, whom she was supposed to pick up on the day of her arrest (Tuesday).

The phones in this area were functional.

The sink in cell 15 had no water pressure.

Food and trash were stacked in almost all bottom-level cells inspected.

Incarcerated women reported that trustees regularly provided menstrual products.

Pordan (#6987230) and Link (#6988290), who were bunked together, stated they were supposed to be released that day but had not been able to access the phones to notify their families.

1403

Page (#6978817) was still in paper underwear despite being released on OR 24 hours prior. Another woman had a similar experience despite completing the required yellow paper.

Deputy Rohm acknowledged that individuals were waiting for release despite being approved for OR due to processing delays. She could not specify how long this process typically took or the longest wait time.

Deputy Rohm appeared overwhelmed and displayed a flippant attitude toward the incarcerated women in her care. There was concern about her actions in guiding Sybil Brand commissioners to specific individuals for conversations.

While the commissioners spoke with the women in 1403, Deputy Rohm entered the area and defended the deputies' actions, appearing to monitor the conversation rather than allowing open discussion.

1440

Incarcerated woman reported she had been having reoccurring panic attacks in cell and vomit was all over floor with another person housed in the same cell. It was observed the cell was somewhat flooded and pile of foods/trash was visible. She noted she had asked for help for last 1-2 days multiple times, calling out and utilized "panic button" but believes it was turned off. She wanted to request to be able to move into an open area as she is afraid of enclosed space and shared, reexperiencing trauma-based symptoms. Deputies were informed and reported it is a detox cell and would have someone clean it soon as she was possibly going to be released.

113. Narrative Continued

Spoke with two trustees from 1703 who shared the following concerns:

Three phones in their pod were nonfunctional.

They only had access to cold showers.

Broken shower tiles posed a safety hazard.

Their Inmate Request to become trustees had been granted approximately one month after submission.

Women in this pod could only access the dayroom, showers, and phones if they participated in programming.

Trash collection was performed by the trustee only if the woman in the cell was deemed non-hostile and had consented.

NARCAN was available outside the pods but not inside individual pods.

1201

Epps (#6959132) was using a bar of soap on her cell window to complete math problems because she had not been provided with a pencil after losing her original one and requesting a replacement.

Women in this pod spoke highly of Deputy Ramirez but expressed concerns about Deputy Mendoza, stating he did not allow them out often or for long enough.

Epps (#6959132, Cell 1) also reported using a bar of soap to stop black water from backing up in her sink. Deputies claimed a plumbing order had been submitted.

Women in Cell 3 had not showered in over two weeks.

1600

Pods 2 and 4 were under COVID quarantine; however, the door connecting Area 2 to Area 1 was open.

Women reported that phone access was sometimes restricted.

Another woman stated she had not been able to shower in two days.

They confirmed that meals were delivered daily and generally on time.

There were no clocks in the pod.

There was no TV, but they did have access to at least one book.
