			Jeff Farber	Helpline Youth Counseling provides an array of field-based mental health services to vulnerable children, adolescents, and families. Mobile alternative crisis response programs are essential to ensure that people in crisis get the help that they need when they need it. Unfortunately, the mental health system nationwide is experiencing challenges in hiring that prevents LA County from fully implementing its alternative crisis response teams. It is essential to incentivize mental health professionals and peer workers of LA County and its non-profit partners and I urge the Board of Supervisors to approve the motion to incentivize hiring for Los Angeles County's alternative crisis response teams.
