27.		Favor
		Oppose	Monisha Parker	To reduce the fee waiver for the 2024 Dragon Boat Festival in Marina del Rey, Los Angeles County. The fee waivers are typically granted based on specific criteria and eligibility requirements set by the event organizers, and they are not negotiable. However, there are a few alternative approaches you might consider: 1. Check if you qualify for an existing fee waiver: While information about specific fee waiver programs for the 2024 Dragon Boat Festival in Marina del Rey is limited, it's worth contacting the organizers directly to see if they offer any waivers based on financial hardship, volunteer work, or other factors. You can find their contact information on the event website or social media pages. 2. Look for fundraising opportunities: Some races offer discounted or even free entry to participants who raise a certain amount of money for charity. Check if the 2024 Dragon Boat Festival has any such programs and, if so, how you can participate. 3. Consider alternative races: If the entry fee for the Marina del Rey Dragon Boat Festival is outside your budget, there might be other dragon boat races or similar events in Los Angeles County with lower entry fees. You can search online race calendars or running websites to find events that fit your budget and preferences. 4. Volunteer at the event: While you wouldn't get to participate in the race itself, volunteering at the Dragon Boat Festival could be a rewarding experience and allow you to be part of the event in a different way. Some races offer free or discounted entry to volunteers in exchange for their help.
