Set Matter 1.		Favor	Christopher Young	I experience officer harassment for legally parking on the street. This is out of hand as police are bullying homeless people and conducting illegal surveillance. I favor this measure for homeless options for parking as more homeless people in vehicles are increasing and the city has no viable option (except pay-to-park) for people like me to safely park and attempt work. I am constantly worried my van (home) will be towed away. I cannot focus of employment while being chased off public land for an inability to pay. The general attitude and stigma in LA about the homeless is negative to say the least. And this is an administrative failure in allowing this paradigm.
			GENEVIEVE M Clavreul	However I'm concerned that once again the Board of Supervisors are "kicking" this critical and necessary report even further down the road. Additionally, a report such as this should never be a "receive and file". This report should be discussed in the open and if needed be given it's own meeting so everyone can be heard.

Set Matter 1.		Oppose	Monisha Parker	Here are two questions that Cheri Todoroff should be provided to the board. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. What about increasing affordable housing? 2. What about collaboration with the department on job training, mental health, and public health? How to Reduce the People Experiencing Homelessness Missions in Los Angeles County? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Increase affordable housing options: One of the main reasons people experience homelessness is the lack of affordable housing. by providing more affordable housing options for low-income individuals and families, we can prevent homelessness from occurring in the first place. 2. Provide support services: Many people experiencing homelessness have complex needs, such as mental health issues, substance abuse problems, and lack of job skills. Providing comprehensive support services, such as mental health counseling, addiction treatment, and job training, can help individuals transition out of homelessness and into stable housing. 3. Expand access to healthcare: Many people experiencing homelessness also lack access to healthcare, which can exacerbate their situation. By expanding access to healthcare services, including mental health and substance abuse treatment, we can help individuals address their needs and improve their overall well-being. 4. Increase funding for homeless services: In order to effectively address homelessness, more funding is needed for homeless services, including outreach, shelters, and transitional housing programs. By investing in these services, we can better support individuals experiencing homelessness and help them find stable housing. 5. Collaborate with community partners: To reduce homelessness in Los Angeles County, it is important to work collaboratively with community partners, including local government agencies, non-profit organizations, and businesses. By leveraging the resources and expertise of these partners, we can develop more effective strategies for addressing homelessness and supporting individuals in need. 6. Implement housing first approach: The housing first approach prioritizes providing individuals experiencing homelessness with stable housing as quickly as possible, without preconditions such as sobriety or job readiness. By implementing this approach, we can quickly move individuals off the streets and into permanent housing, which can help to alleviate homelessness in the long term.
