37.		Oppose	Monisha Parker	There are several strategies that could be used to reduce the construction contract for the Elevator Modernization Projects at the Hubert H. Humphrey and Edward R. Roybal Comprehensive Health Centers. Here are a few suggestions: 1. Competitive bidding: Solicit bids from multiple contractors to ensure that you are getting the best price for the project. This will allow you to compare pricing and choose the most cost-effective option. 2. Value engineering: Work closely with the contractor to find ways to reduce costs without compromising on quality. This could involve using alternative materials or construction methods that are more budget-friendly. 3. Negotiation: Don't be afraid to negotiate with the contractor to try and bring down the overall cost of the project. Discuss options for cost-savings and be open to compromise. 4. Phased construction: Consider breaking the project down into smaller phases to spread out the costs over time. This could help you manage the budget more effectively and reduce the financial burden of the project. 5. Seek funding or grants: Look into potential sources of funding or grants that could help offset the costs of the project. This could include government assistance programs or private foundations that support healthcare infrastructure projects. By using these strategies, you may be able to reduce the overall cost of the Elevator Modernization Projects at the Hubert H. Humphrey and Edward R. Roybal Comprehensive Health Centers.
