			Daria Brooks	While Supervisor Hahn's motion is admirable, why is it that there is more concern for the welfare of illegal RV dwellers than the residents surrounding these derelict oil wells? We have been calling for more RV parks for such vehicles for nearly a decade, but placing them on disused oil well land only guarantees future lawsuits against the County for the inevitable health issues this will bring. There are thousands of square miles worth of empty land in L.A. County upon which those RVs can be directed away from our homes—uncontaminated land that has not been tainted by oil wells. There are also existing RV parks to which they should have been directed long ago. Please do not create a problem for which future generations of tax payers will be forced to pay.
