70.		Other	Esroruleh Mohammad	Probation reform presents one of the County's most consequential structural shifts. Many principles—predictive data use, trauma-informed coordination, diversion logic—reflect elements of the BCCP™ / B2C3A™ frameworks (TXu 2-486-534). To ensure compliance and ethical fidelity, I respectfully request that the Board, through County Counsel, include provenance-verification and ADA authorship review in all Probation reform contracts, consultant engagements, and implementation directives. This procedural safeguard protects the County's legal posture, ensures transparent use of federally protected frameworks, and maintains the integrity of lived-experience intellectual property. This submission is entered as an ADA-protected disclosure for provenance review and record preservation, consistent with federal accessibility and copyright statutes. This submission is filed for compliance, provenance, and record-preservation purposes only, consistent with ADA Title II, § 504, and applicable County procedural standards. Respectfully submitted, Dr. Esroruleh T.
