			Dan Broyles	I currently work as a pastor in Santa Clarita and I previously was a social worker for DCFS in the Santa Clarita office. I currently work with Dominique Robinson (she is great to work with) as a co-chair for the Faith Collaborative for DCFS. About five years ago I helped start the first training for churches in Los Angeles County to utilize Care Portal. I have seen them grow as an organization and I have experienced them be a team player with DCFS, schools, different faith groups, and many non-profits. I hope that the supervisors are willing to support Care Portal as I believe that they have made a significantly positive impact on the community! I know many churches that absolutely love and support Care Portal due the difference they make in the community. Care Portal has been a great advocate for vulnerable families throughout Los Angeles County, and they have been a great community parter with so many families and agencies. I have seen them respond to all types of families with different backgrounds with great respect and kindness! I fully support Care Portal and hope that DCFS can continue to work with them for many years!!

12.		Favor	Erin Vucurevich	As a church and nonprofit leader in Long Beach and as someone who has seen firsthand the power of CarePortal in connecting congregations with children, youth, and families in crisis, I strongly support the motion to expand CarePortal services across all eight Service Planning Areas in Los Angeles County. Our church has used CarePortal for years as a practical, dignifying way to meet real needs—whether it's helping a kinship caregiver with essential items, supporting a biological family working toward reunification, or walking alongside a young person transitioning out of care. What makes CarePortal so effective is not only the material impact, but the relationships that form when everyday community members step forward to serve their neighbors. This investment of $1.7 million over two years allows more churches and community partners to respond quickly and collaboratively to families in crisis. It strengthens the safety net for some of our most vulnerable children while empowering local volunteers with a tool that is efficient, accountable, and grounded in dignity. I am particularly encouraged by the Board's commitment to quarterly reporting, ensuring transparency around how many children, youth, and families are served and the overall impact of donated goods and services. As someone who uses this tool regularly, I know the data will reflect what we already see on the ground: CarePortal works. Expanding this platform countywide is a meaningful step toward creating a more connected, compassionate, and responsive community for all families. I am grateful for leaders who prioritize practical solutions and partnerships that honor both the challenges and the strengths of the families we serve.

			Jose C Rodriguez	Because of this incredible real-time tool (CarePortal), our church has been able to step in to prevent removals, intervene in moments of crisis, and support reunification for children and families involved in foster care. It's helped us build long-lasting relationships, relationships so strong that many of these families are now turning around and doing the same for others.
			Marlon Pascual	CarePortal is a great asset for all the communities. CarePortal's staff is dedicated to keeping their mission daily to help kids and their families in crisis, and they have proven great results. With their great effort, they have restored value, hope, and provided daily needs to keep the families going in their daily activities. Therefore, I am requesting that you continue to support this great organization, which blesses families living in our community and society.

12.		Favor	Max McGhee	To Whom it May Concern, Saddleback Church has been effectively using CarePortal for several years and it has revolutionized our ability to provide care for struggling families in our community. A family in crisis needs connections to a healthy community who can respond with agility to met unique needs. CarePortal empowers that connection and we have seen more than just transactions but friendships that enable opportunities beyond the essential items requested through CarePortal. The training and platform that CarePortal provides is what every churches needs to activate the pent up compassion churches members feel to become trauma-informed assistance to helping families move forward. To date Saddleback and 6 other partner churches have helped bring an economic impact of $342,896 to 474 families in need. LA County has nearly 5000 churches. Imagine giving them just what they need to unleash 10,000 volunteers with millions of dollars ready to aid families to a path of hope, help, and healing. Technology is disrupting various sectors all over our society to mobilize people in masses to make tasks more efficient and widespread. CarePortal is a technology that will change how volunteers engage with giving care to our neighbors. Board members please listen to the voice of churches, who want to see CarePortal funded. This will give the staffing and structure to empower ordinary members of our communities to express compassion for our neighbors in need. I believe this will unlock more than just 10 million in charitable gifts but connect thousands of families to relationships that can help provide mentors who also struggled and found ways towards a better life. As a society we are better together. Saddleback has 15 campuses in Southern California and three are in LA County. Only one of the three can access CarePortal currently. Thank you for your consideration! Pastor Max McGhee Saddleback Church

12.		Favor	Paula Cracium	Care Portal is a critical tool for the Department of children and family services and kids and care. It takes much of the burden off of the system and puts it on caring nonprofits and faith based organizations to provide much-needed resources in a simple and easy to use format, expanding Care Portal services would mean better access to resources for both parents and kids and care and is a win-win for both the county and the children and families connected to the department of children family services

December 2, 2025 BOS meeting, Agenda Item 12 SUPPORT

I am an advocate for impoverished families and foster children and TAY who worked at Public Counsel Law Center for twenty years.

I have worked collaboratively with Care Portal since they were introduced to Los Angeles and can personally attest to the critical services and supports that they deliver to our most distressed households to alleviate their suffering. Care Portal deserves county support because it leverages the ability of DCFS and other county departments to achieve their vital work in a more efficient and timely manner. By engaging our faith communities to join force with county social workers as well as teachers and health professionals working in the trenches of need, Care Portal leverages county dollars to deliver urgent services and supports where the need is greatest and most time sensitive

Care Portal educates faith communities about the dire needs in our community and how vital it is for all people of good will to do their part to alleviate the suffering of distressed children and families

Care Portal is nimble and adaptive to the needs in ways county services may not be as responsive given governmental bureaucratic constraints.

I have personally witnessed the vital impact CP has had numerous times - for example, I am an Education Rights Holder for a foster girl who witnessed her mother murdered and found her sister after she committed suicide wanting to be with her mommy in heaven. She was in the child psychiatric hospital when I met her. We worked hard to help arrange for her to be placed with a relative - only to discover that she needed to have a bunk bed in order to have a one on one live with her to ensure she too did not commit suicide. The County could not arrange for this to happen on an expedited bases but I reached out to care portal and they found a faith community to donate the bed and have it delivered on time for her placement to be approved.

This is but one example of how CP leverages county dollars to deliver urgent services and supports where the need is greatest and most time sensitive - and in ways that enable your social workers to do their jobs better to help stabilize our most distressed children and households.

In sum, Care Portal provides a growing platform enabling ever more people in our community to join force in alleviating the suffering in our communities. It is a vital vehicle to bring love where there is hurt and need – I cannot imagine a better investment.
