Contractors State License Board (CSLB)

Before hiring anyone for repairs
or rebuilding,
make sure they are licensed and in good standing with CSLB.

Why Licensing Matters

- Health & Safety: Assures a contractor's understanding of local building codes and other safety requirements
- Quality Assurance: Certifies a contractor's experience, technical knowledge and quality of work
- Avenues for Recourse: Ensures accountability and government oversight in the case of a problem or need for recourse
- Consumer Protections: Prevents homeowners from being taken advantage of or assuming undue legal/financial liability

Finding a Licensed Contractor: What to Look for

- License number – Contractors must include their license number on business cards, contracts, and advertisements.
- Workers' compensation insurance – Required if the contractor has employees and for specific classifications.
- Classifications – B - General Building is the classification for new home construction while they may subcontract with other specialty trades as needed for other projects in the home.

License Classifications for Rebuilding

- “A” – General Engineering: Infrastructure, utilities, grading.
- “B” – General Building: Residential and home rebuilding.
- C-Classifications: Specialized trades like roofing or plumbing.

Who Needs To Be Licensed?

- Projects of $1,000 or more require a CSLB license.
- Contractor must have an active license in good standing.
- License number must be on contracts, ads, and business cards.
- Handshake agreements are not legally binding.
- Performing construction in a declared natural disaster area without an active license can result in felony charges—with penalties up to 16 months in state prison and fines of up to $10,000

Before You Hire a Contractor

- Make sure they are licensed – Check their license at www.cslb.ca.gov.
- Get at least three bids – Compare prices and services before deciding.
- Ask for references – Talk to past clients and look at completed projects.
- Read everything carefully – Don't rush into a contract before reviewing all the terms.

Get Multiple Bids and Check References

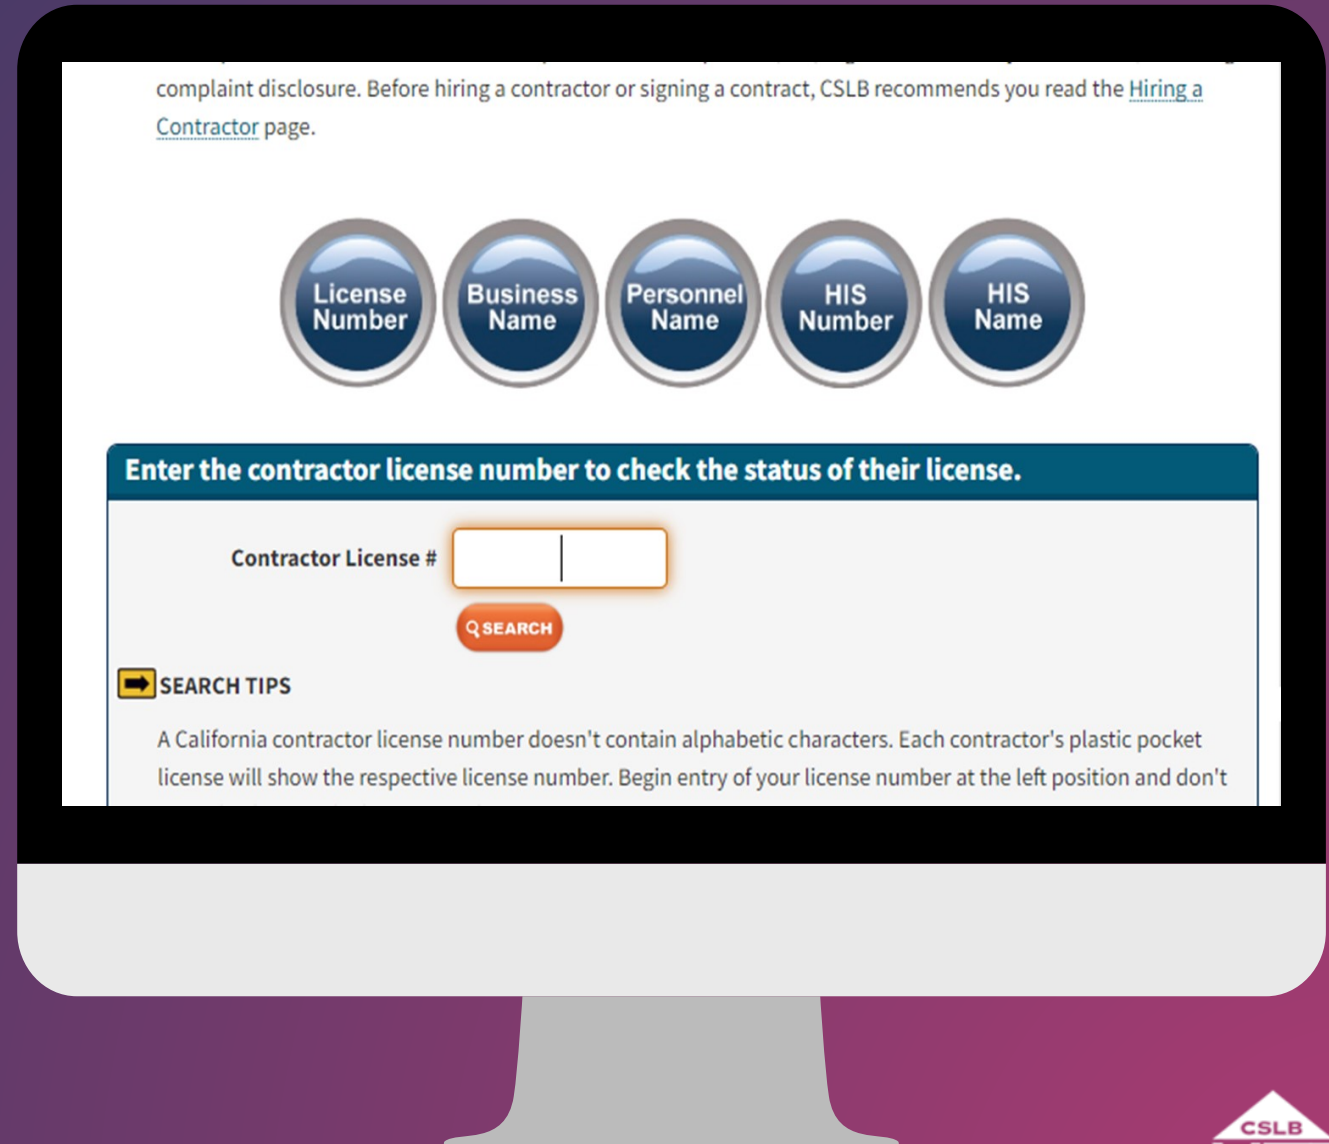

- Collect at least three written bids to compare pricing, scope, and timelines.
- Very low bids may mean hidden costs or poor-quality work.
- Ask for at least three client references and call them.
- Visit completed projects or request project photos to see workmanship.
- Review CSLB complaint history before deciding.

How to Check a License

Look up a license by using any one of the following:

- License Number
- Business Name
- Personnel Name
- Home Improvement Salesperson (HIS) Number
- HIS Name

complaint disclosure. Before hiring a contractor or signing a contract, CSLB recommends you read the Hiring a Contractor page.

✓ Include a Schedule of Progress Payments

Permits, Inspections, Change Orders

✓ Contractor Must Obtain
Required Permits

✓ Permits Ensure Work is Safe
and Code-Compliant

✓ Change Orders Must Be in Writing and Signed

✓ Contract Should Include:
Insurance, Bonding, and Cancellation Rights

After a disaster, some businesses may overcharge for material and labor. Although CSLB does not regulate pricing, protect yourself by knowing fair prices before signing a contract.

Avoid Price Gouging

- In disaster areas, raising prices by more than 10 percent is illegal.
- Report price gouging to your local district attorney, CSLB, or your county office dedicated to rebuilding.
- Research material costs before buying.
- Beware of low bids – they may hide extra costs or poor-quality work.

Report Unlawful Construction in a Disaster Zone

- Be alert for unlicensed contractors offering repair or rebuilding services.
- Check the license: Always verify a contractor's license at www.cslb.ca.gov or by calling 800-321-CSLB (2752).
- Gather details: Note the person or company name, vehicle info, location, dates, and type of work being done.

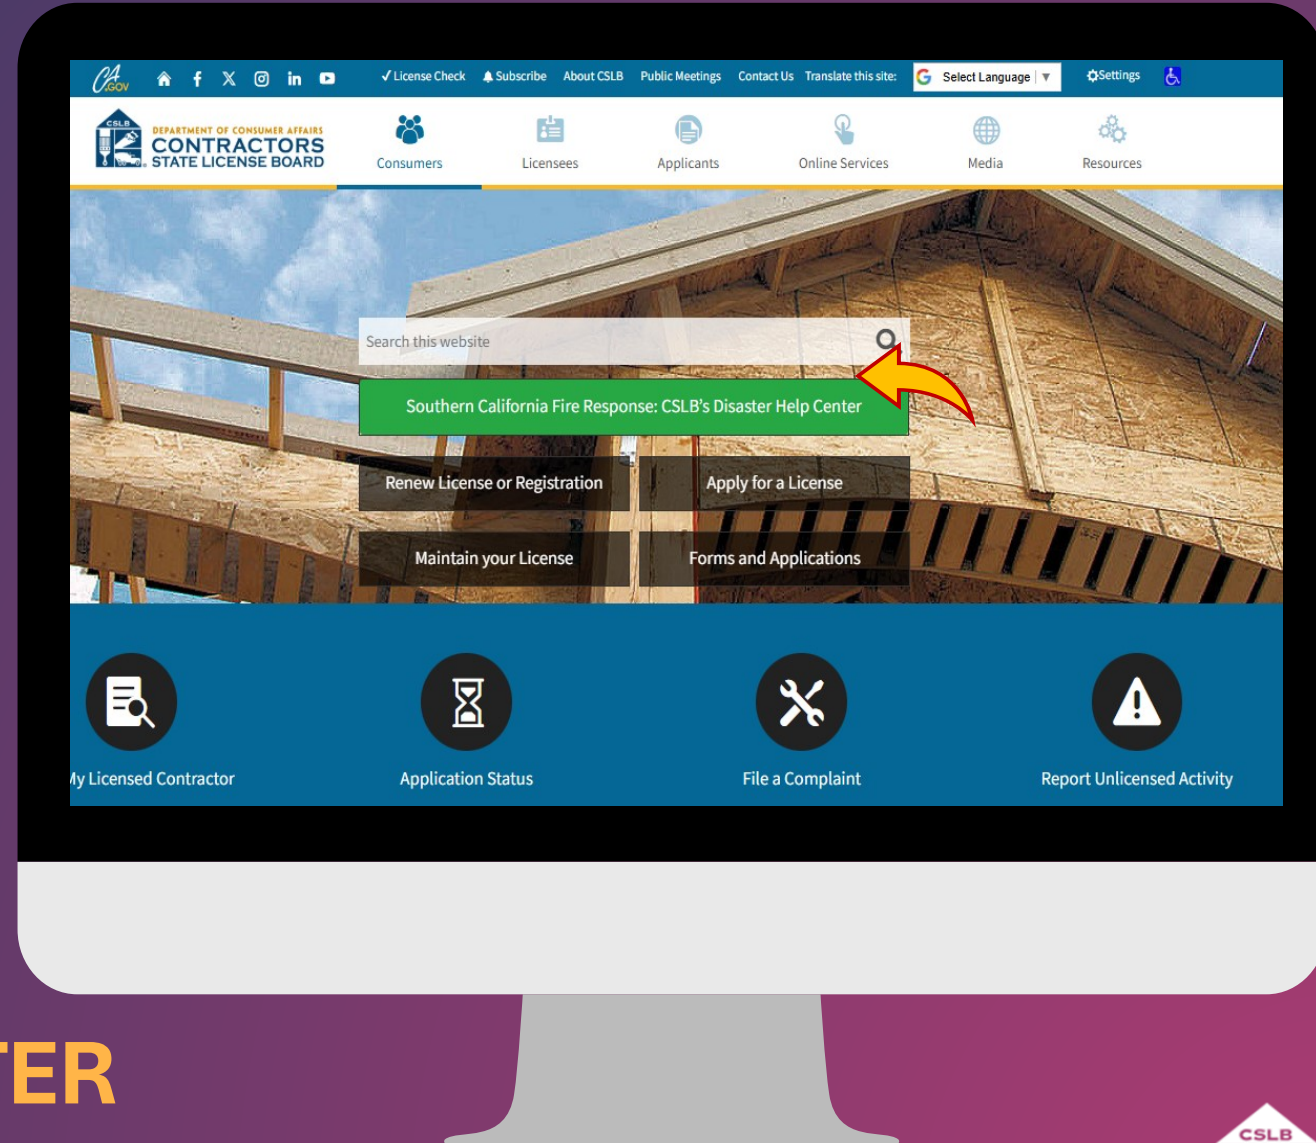

Report Unlawful Construction in a Disaster Zone

- Take photos or videos (if safe) to document the work and individuals involved.
- Submit a complaint to CSLB online or by mail—use the “Fraudulent or Unlicensed Activity” complaint form at www.cslb.ca.gov.
- Report immediately: Timely reporting helps CSLB dispatch its Statewide Investigative Fraud Team (SWIFT) to investigate and stop illegal activity.

How to File a Complaint

- Visit CSLB's complaint page: www.cslb.ca.gov/consumers
- Choose your complaint type: Unlicensed activity, poor workmanship, contract violations, and more.
- Submit online: Use CSLB's secure e-Complaint form or download a paper form to mail.
- Be specific: Include names, license numbers (if available), dates, addresses, and photos or documents that support your complaint.
- Track progress: CSLB may contact you for follow-up details or investigation updates.

LA County Department of Consumer Business Affairs (DCBA)

About DCBA

- Free, local help: LA County's local consumer protection agency. For homeowners, landlords, tenants, workers, and consumers.
- One-on-one support: We answer questions, respond to complaints, and explain your rights
- Empowering consumers: We seek remedies from businesses that take advantage of consumers, including disaster survivors
- Website: dcba.lacounty.gov
- Phone: (800) 593-8222

After a disaster...

- Damage to your home and urgent repairs
- Contractors knocking on your door offering help
- Pressure to sign contracts quickly
- Confusion about your rights and how to stay safe

Get Everything In Writing

- A written contract should include:
 - What work will be done
 - How much it will cost
 - Start and end dates
- Don't sign anything you're not comfortable with
- Never pay everything upfront
- No contract = no protection.

Know Your Right to Cancel

- 7 days: In a declared disaster area
- 5 days: Door-to-door sales, at your home or temporary residence
- 3 days: Away from a seller's usual place of business (e.g. fairs, trade shows, temporary offices)
- Contractor must provide a written notice explaining your right to cancel
- To cancel, send a written cancellation notice within the applicable time frame
- You do not need to give a reason to cancel

Watch Out for Price Gouging

Illegal to raise prices more than 10% during an emergency, including:

- Construction and repair services
- Materials
- Rentals and hotel rooms

Overcharged? Call DCBA

- Visit dcba.lacounty.gov/pricegouging or call (800) 593-8222
- DCBA can investigate and take action
- LA County Board of Supervisors approved stronger enforcement tools

Understand Mechanics Liens

- A mechanics lien is a legal claim against your property if someone working on your home, like a subcontractor or supplier isn't paid.

Why it matters:

- Shows up on your property records and affects your credit
- Blocks you from selling or refinancing your home
- May lead to foreclosure if unpaid

How Mechanics Liens Work

Steps subcontractors or suppliers must take to file a lien

1. Preliminary Notice (within 20 days of starting work)

- They notify you they are working on your home and may file a lien if unpaid.

2. Filing Claim of Lien (within 90 days after work ends)

- A public record is created against your property for the amount owed.

3. Serving You the Lien

- You must be officially notified about the lien.

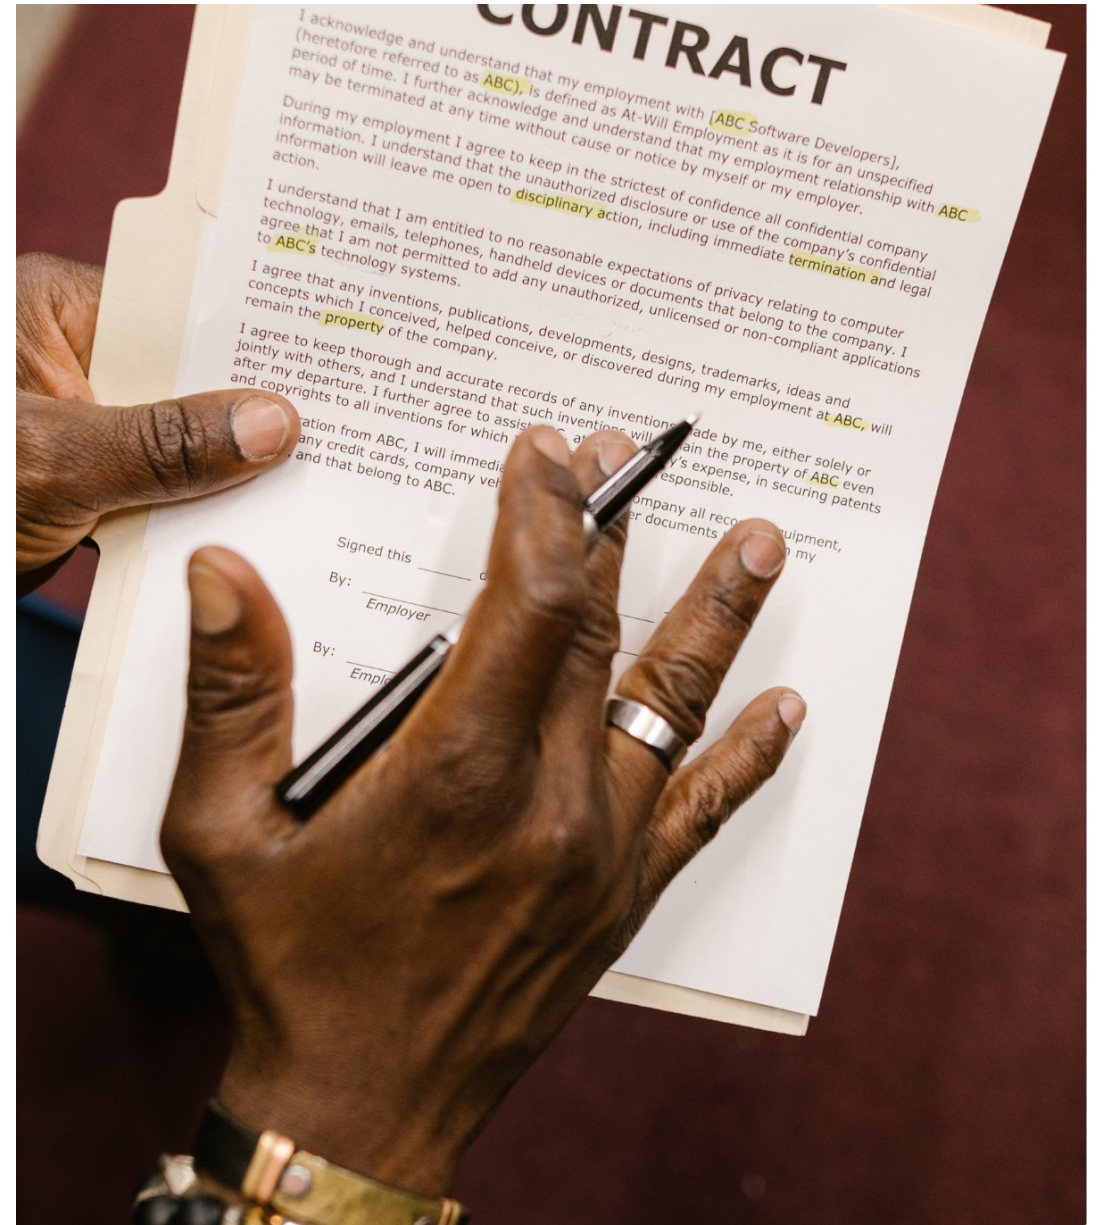

4. Filing a Lawsuit (within 90 days of filing lien)

- If they don't sue within 90 days, the lien expires. If they sue and win, they can force the sale of your home.

How to Protect Yourself From a Lien

- Ask your contractor for a list of subcontractors and suppliers
- Request copies of Preliminary Notices
- Make payments by joint checks to contractor and subcontractors
- Always get Lien Waivers when you pay
- Don't make your final payment until the work is done and all lien waivers are signed

Remember...

- Don't rush — take time to review contracts
- Get everything in writing
- Know your cancellation rights
- Watch for price gouging or shady contractors
- Protect your home with lien waivers & payment safeguards
